Restaurant of the Cherokees - Tahlequah

SHOWTIME: Downtown Country

In 1995, C.H. Parker met Tim Gilliam, a young country and bluegrass musician who had recently returned to Tahlequah from performing in Nashville to pursue a degree in mass communication at Northeastern State University. From that initial meeting sprung the nexus for Downtown Country, the university's annual Branson-style show showcasing live country music. The first year's Country Fare evolved into NSU's Downtown Hoedown and eventually became known as Downtown Country. Downtown Country has hosted a number of talented artists over the years, including NSU alumnae and country music superstar Carrie Underwood. The Travel Masters will enjoy the performance "My Generation - 4 decades of Country & Rock 'n Roll" also at the the Shawnee Theatre in Tahlequah.

REST BREAK: Cherokee Casino in Tahlequah

As time allows we will also have a short break at the Cherokee Casino in Tahlequah.
